"Would you like to join me on an adventure this Friday after school?" Harry asked his brother, Will, with a twinkle in his eye. Will eyed Harry skeptically. Harry had gotten both of them into trouble several times previously with his outrageous ideas, one of which was to swim in the canal during a thunderstorm. Will shuddered as he remembered that he had almost drowned. Smirking, Harry taunted, "Surely you are not scared? You are no longer my skinny little brother, you know! Look how tall and stout you've grown!" With firm resolve, Will knew he should not give in to Harry. As much as he wanted to prove Harry wrong, he did not want to risk his safety and have to face the consequences from their parents.

Study the poster (Text 1) and the extract from a news article (Text 2) and answer questions 21 to 25.

The text below shows an advertisement for an air-conditioner.

The advertisement is a black and white poster. At the top right, the brand name 'EcoBreeze' is written in a simple font. The central image shows a polar bear on the right and a camel on the left, both looking towards the center. The text 'Coolness in a blink!' is written in a large, stylized, bubbly font across the top. Below this, the main slogan 'PURE COOLING, GREENER LIVING.' is written in large, bold, block letters with a drop shadow effect. The bottom section of the poster contains several testimonials and a certification logo. The testimonials are arranged in two columns, with the Singapore Green Energy Institute testimonial centered below them. A white banner at the very bottom contains the text 'Visit us at our main showroom at Bright Hill Centre today!'.

Coolness in a blink!

PURE COOLING, GREENER LIVING.

Text 2

The extract below is taken from a newspaper article on buying eco-friendly products.

Eco-friendly air-conditioners are everywhere, promising to use less energy and help the environment. Many brands highlight their advanced technology, making them seem like the best choice for a greener future. But how much difference does the technology really make?

Air-conditioners still run on electricity. Most of the time, electricity comes from sources that harm the environment. Some newer models may use less electricity, but others may not be as effective as they claim. The real impact depends on how they are manufactured, how they are used, and how long they last.

A good way to check if an air-conditioner is truly eco-friendly is to look at official energy ratings and reviews. These help buyers understand if a machine really saves power or if it only looks eco-friendly on the outside. Durability matters too – air-conditioners that last longer create less waste because they do not need to be replaced as often.

Being environmentally responsible is not just about choosing what looks "green." It is about understanding how products work, how much impact on the environment is reduced, and whether they are built to last.

BLANK PAGE

For each question from 21 to 25, four options are given. One of them is the correct answer. Make your choice (1, 2, 3 or 4) and shade your answer on the Optical Answer Sheet. (5 marks)

21 According to the poster in Text 1, which of the following is true of EcoBreeze air-conditioners?

- (1) Using these air-conditioners will not affect the environment
- (2) Singapore Green Energy Institute designed the air-conditioners
- (3) Customers have had positive experiences with these air-conditioners.
- (4) Interested parties can purchase the air-conditioners only at Bright Hill Centre.

22 "Pure cooling, Greener living." Why did the writer include this phrase in Text 1?

- (1) to attract people to look at the advertisement
- (2) to highlight the importance of reducing impact on the environment
- (3) to show how fast the air-conditioner can cool a room down effectively
- (4) to suggest the possibility of reducing environmental impact while staying cool

23 "Coolness in a blink!" The picture supports this by giving the impression that the EcoBreeze air-conditioners _____.

- (1) .work best during a hot day
- (2) provide cooling at very low temperatures
- (3) are capable of cooling down a hot room instantly
- (4) can offer powerful cooling for a short period of time

24 Based on the poster in Text 1, which of the following best fits the purpose of this text?

- (1) inform
- (2) explain
- (3) entertain
- (4) persuade

25 We cannot trust the way Text 1 promotes EcoBreeze air-conditioners because Text 2 says that _____.

- (1) electricity is needed for air-conditioners to work
- (2) air-conditioners that produce less waste do not need to be replaced often
- (3) the impact on environment depends on how the air-conditioners are manufactured
- (4) it is better to look at official energy ratings and reviews to check if an air-conditioner is truly eco-friendly

Staying back after school was not a part of Ryan's plan. He had wanted to visit the library to check out a new comic book. However, the chaos in the class library in the corner of the classroom was impossible to ignore. Books were stacked sideways, with some even wedged between shelves as if shoved in a hurry. Seeing the mess before him, Ryan sighed. As the English monitor, he had just organised them the previous day. He slumped in front of the shelf and again started separating books by their genres. Sorting was definitely not fun. After that, he had to arrange them neatly, making sure that every spine faced the same way.

5

Looking at another pile of worn-out books lying on the floor, Ryan exhaled sharply in annoyance, "I really shouldn't bother. Nobody cares anyway." He then proceeded to unfold a bent page from a book before slotting it back to its rightful place. Just as he reached for another, a sound broke the silence. Jolted by the sudden disturbance, Ryan paused. Then, he strained to listen. The initial squeaking of wheels grew louder, before slow and steady footsteps became audible. Ryan looked up.

10

It was one of the school's cleaners. He was a quiet elderly man with greying hair, his uniform faded and frayed from his time of service in the school. Ryan had never seen him before. For the first time, Ryan observed him closely. The cleaner moved from desk to desk, wiping each one meticulously. Then, he pushed the mop across the floor, erasing smudges and footprints left behind by students who had not thought twice about them.

15

"Uncle, why do you clean everything so thoroughly? My classmates will just mess it up again tomorrow," Ryan asked, feeling puzzled.

The elderly man paused, meeting Ryan's gaze with tired but kind eyes. He smiled gently before replying, "Well, it's my job to keep your classroom clean, right? I'm sure some of your classmates appreciate having a clean space to study in." As the meaning of his words sank in, Ryan's expression slowly changed. He suddenly recalled the mornings he had walked into a spotless classroom. Never once had he wondered about the person who ensured it stayed that way.

25

Meanwhile, the cleaner did not wait for a response. He simply continued cleaning the classroom, his mop swishing rhythmically against the tiles. Ryan stared intently, watching each swipe of the mop as it traced neat lines across the floor. During that moment, he grasped the deeper purpose behind the cleaner's work. It was for neither recognition nor praise, but a commitment to ensure a conducive environment for students. It stayed orderly not by chance, but because of his unseen effort. Across the room, the man gave him a small nod before returning to his own work. In return, Ryan gave him a thumbs-up.

30

35

Inspired by how the cleaner took pride in his work, a small smile appeared on Ryan's face. Not long ago, he was on the verge of giving up – the sight of his work undone, a lack of acknowledgement of his effort – all felt too defeating. But now, he saw his duty in a different light, a responsibility that he was entrusted with. "Guess it's not so meaningless after all," Ryan murmured, focused on shelving the next book.
